

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus provides techniques for electrically isolating switching devices in a stacked RF power amplifier, which prevents the switching devices from being subjected to high breakdown voltages. The isolation provided allows the power 5 amplifier to be implemented on an integrated circuit.